APPLICATION

Heart Health ingredients studies which could have an influence on supporting the cardio vascular agility, cholesterol levels and specifically heart health, is as follows:

- Policosanol research - well designed clinical trials, involving nearly 30,000 patients – with definitive lowering of cholesterol levels.
- Phosphatidylcholine has been researched for use in the treatment of high cholesterol levels and atherosclerosis.
- Dutch study to determine the effects of folic acid supplementation, on the risk for heart disease due high cholesterol - improved the ability of blood vessels to dilate. (Published Journal of the American Heart Association).
- Studies of Dr. Richard Anderson (USA), using cayenne and hawthorn berries, has had an incredible effect upon the heart health.
- In Germany clinical and laboratory research findings about Hawthorn stets that it may be beneficial in treating heart conditions, including arrhythmia, angina, atherosclerosis, high blood pressure and elevated cholesterol levels. Clinical trials have also found benefits in the elderly with no heart conditions but simply deteriorating heart function with age. (Hoffmann 1995)

Heart Health's calcium and magnesium content is a natural proven bioavailable substance. These two essential minerals are involved in enzyme reactions, nerve functioning, muscle relaxing and maintaining healthy blood vessels.
